Spokane, Sept. 9.—The Miners won out in a loosely played game today. Spokane's team made errors and dumb plays enough to lose two games. There was little ginger on either side and no features worth mentioning. Harmon was an easy mark for the Butte batters and was replaced in the fourth inning by Hogg, who did little better. FOR LOS ANGELES

F. E. Schefski, former manager of the local Saucer track, received a letter from Los Angeles yesterday in which it was said that a new cycle track would be built there this winter. The letter said the ground had been secured and that work on the track would begin in a short time. The track is to be built by the Chutes park people and it is the intention to run it during the winter months, when it will be easy to get all the eastern cracks out there to fide. Unere has been talk of this track being built for some time, and the announcement that it is going to be built will be glad news to the army of cycle riders af the local Saucer track.

PUNCTURED TIRE MAKES TROUBLE

Accident.

THEN "SAMMY" DISPOSES OF BETTING BEGINS-EUREKA AND HARDY IN EASY FASHION.

A small splinter of wood was the cause of more disappointment last evening than a whole lumber yard could be under ordinary circumstances. The aforementioned splinter embedded itself in a bicycle tire just as a crowd of fully 5,000 cycle fans had settled itself back to enjoy what should have been one of the cycling events of the year. Unlike the fabled horeshoe nait, the loss of which resulted in the loss of a kingdom, in this case the fallure to lose a measily little piece of wood biding in the surface of the saucer. wood hiding in the surface of the saucer

It developed that no provision had been made for punctures in the articles of agreement, and when it was seen that the race would continue between Downing and Samuelson, disappointment could be seen written.

A single motor was put in the race and was limited to a two-minute clip by the referee. Samuelson drew the metor for the first mile and the race was a procession for this distance. Samuelson. Downing and McFarland following in the order named. On the second mile Downing went around for the pace and Samuelson immediately followed. This pair kept up a continual scrap for the rear wheel of the motor, neither one giving the other a minute's rest, while McFarland held on to his place in third position. These tactics meant only one thing, McFarland to win. The lanky boy was laying back while Downing and Samuelson would gradually wear themselves out. On the third mile, with the crowd all keyed up to the highest pitch, McFarland was seen to drop back, his wheel wobble and then ride down on the cement—out of the race with a punctured tire.

Was a Game Finish, However.

Was a Game Finish, However.

Samuelson and Downing continued and made a game finish, but the knowing ones could see nothing but Samuelson. On the seventeenth mile the motor went bad, but T. M. Samuelson quickly picked up the riders with a new machine.

Three laps from home the motor was ordered out and the crowd rose as a man to see the fight at the tape. Samuelson in the lead rode high on the bank for a lap and a half. Liewning on his rear wheel. Then Downing made the fattal mistake of dropping to the pole and trying to outgraint the Prova man for fatal mistake of dropping to the pole and trying to outsprint the Provo man for the tape. Quick as a flash Sam was after him and literally ran away from Hardy, beating him wheel lengths to the long black line.

It was a great finish, but McFarland out of the race was too much of a disappointment, and it could not be appreciated.

Samuelson and Downing had it out again in the finish of the mile handicap. McFarland did not start, leaving these two men to fight it out alone unaided by team mates. It was the same old sprint, two laps from home with Downing safely tucked on Samuelson's rear wheel until the last turn, when Downing came out. From there to the tape it was a hair-raiser, Samuelson winning by inches.

Redmans Lose Each Other. Redmans Lose Each Other.

The five-mile lap race saw the Redman brothers separated, something which seldom occurs. Iver was loading away to the back of the bunch, and, with Weiser, was over a half a lap behind the leaders of the big field when the gun was fired. A killing pace was introduced by the leaders and iver made the ride of his life to get into the play. For three miles he tried to get a hold on the front bunch, but could not gain the distance. He quit, leaving Brother Carl to fight it out with the West-Castro combination for first money. To the surprise of everyone Carl turned the trick unaided, and won the race in a game finish with Castro and West trailing him.

Castro and West trailing him. Hoodlums Need sixing.

Hoodlums Need sixing.

The management of the saucer would do a wise thing if it placed several strong-armed men around in the audience with orders to knock the heads off of some of the hoodlums who think it smart to throw cushions down in the arena after the races are over. Last evening several persons were hurt by these hoodlums and there were some mad men clamored up over the seats to locate those who were doing the throwing. This thing has gotten to be a nulsance.

The summary:
Half-mile open amateur, final—I. Redman, West, Castro. Time—1:02 1-5.

FIGHT GAME OPENS IN DENVER AT LAST

Denver, Sept. 9.—Harry Forbes of Chicago won from Mike Magovey, otherwise "Dago" Mike of Leadville, in the eighth round of a go that was scheduled for len rounds, at the Democratic club tonight. Magovey's seconds threw up the sponge after Mike had been floored three times. During the third round Mike was knocked down six times, but gamely came to the scratch each time and developed considerable speed until the eighth, when persistent pounding on the stomach so weakened him that he was staggering bindiy around the ring.

wood hiding in the surface of the saucer track resulted in an overflowing mass of humanity losing its temper.

It all came about in the twenty-mile single motor paced race between McParland. Downing and Samuelson, which drew people to the saucer track tike files to molasses in the summer time.

Wanted to See McFarland.

This vast crowd had for the third time in the past two weeks packed the saucer track to see Provo's pride and the Handicap King, with Downing thrown in as an unknown quantity, fight it out in a battle royal in which bicycles were the means of locomotion. AccFarland, however, found the splinter, a small hissing sound followed and those nearest knew it was all off as far as McFarland was the man the crowd wanted to see ride against Samuelson.

It developed that no provision had been made for punctures in the articles of agreement, and when it was seen that the race would continue between Downing and Samuelson, disappointment could be seen written over the vast audience.

In order to give everybody a chauce to see this championship game, and incidentally the best amateur talent in the state in a fight for blood, the manage ments of the two teams have decided to place the price of admission at 25 cents, and the same amount extra for the grand-stand. This is done with the expectation of making ground rules, but what's the difference so long as the fans can see a game where town pride is first, last and all the time the object in view. Not only are Eureka, Park City and Sait Lake interested in the game, but other mining camps will probably send delegations of fans to the city.
